GUIDE TO THE LIBRARIES

Starting college can be a challenge, but you are not in it alone. From your first day of classes to your graduation day, IUP Libraries will be there to support you every step of the way. We offer extensive print and electronic information sources, state of the art computing equipment, helpful and highly qualified personnel to assist you and a range of services developed specifically to support your academic success. All this can be found in facilities that have the longest hours on campus and have been designed to help you concentrate, collaborate, and contemplate. You will find everything you need to help you get your work done well in record time.

LOOKING FOR HELP?

IUP Libraries have friendly librarians and technicians familiar with your information needs and ready to help you with your research and projects. You can find assistance by visiting us in person or over the web at http://www.iup.edu/library. Avoid frustrations and delays by bringing any questions you have concerning study or research to the librarians at the reference desk. You can reach them in the following ways:

- Visit the Reference Desk in person or call us at Call us! 724-357-3006 or 1-866-836-8815.
- Use our Ask Us reference service to send us a question and get an answer, usually within 24 hours.
- Video tutorials that answer our most asked questions are also available from the Video Tutorials link on our webpage http://www.iup.edu/library.
LOOKING FOR INFORMATION RESOURCES?

The IUP Libraries provides access to a rich variety of paper and electronic sources from early printed books to the latest electronic articles. Our libraries house more than 900,000 books, journals, government documents, and video and audio titles in tangible formats. We offer access to hundreds of thousands of eBooks, electronic journals and streaming video and music titles as well. Computers, printers, scanners and digital photography equipment are also available for use and/or circulation.

Get Started with Libraries Home Page  http://www.iup.edu/library

From our home page you can access the majority of our resources and services in one or two clicks. Begin with the I-Search Discovery search box pictured here. link.

Enter your search terms into the I-Search Discovery google-like search box to search multiple library databases including Pilot, the online catalog, and dozens of other databases such as Academic Search Complete, in a single search. It also includes links to the Online Catalog, Databases (comprehensive listing of library databases), Research Guides, and Ask Us Reference Service.

Access to Library Resources and Services From Off-Campus

IUP Libraries online resources are available to anyone accessing them from computers located on campus. For off-campus users, access is also available, but it is necessary for them to login using either their library barcode number and last name, their single signon login, or to set up the VPN on their computers. Information on how to login is at http://libraryguides.lib.iup.edu/c.php?g=60542

IUP Electronic Journals Title Search

Want to check and see if the libraries offer electronic access to a journal title? Try searching our IUP EJournal portal located http://fn9cr5xf4p.search.serialssolutions.com/

Not Finding What You Need in Our Collections?

The Library offers an Interlibrary Loan Department to order books and articles that are not owned by IUP Libraries but are requested by library users re ordered. Books are request through PALCI. Books not available through PALCI and all journal articles are requested through ILLIAD. Books are held for requestors at the Circulation Desk and journal articles are made available electronically. For more information on these services:

Need wifi to access the internet? The library can help. It has wifi access for IUP users available on all floors. Need to use a computer? Over a hundred computer stations are available for library users (login with your university login) located on all of the main libraries' four floors. A well-equipped computer lab (the busiest on campus) is found near Java City, the main libraries’ coffee bar. Media pods with specialized software are also available to help in the preparation of media projects. Laptops can be borrowed from the Media Equipment desk along with other non-book materials such as DVDs, digital cameras and recorders, and even flood-light kits and netbook computers can be borrowed for home use. Help setting up the wi-fi, formatting a paper, or putting a video together? The Technology Assistance Desk staff can help you with that and more. Need to scan something, make a photocopy or print something out? Then the library is the place to go. We have a number of scanners, photocopy machines, and printers (both black and white and color) for your use.

Looking for a place to study? Look no further than IUP Libraries. We offer some of the most popular study spaces on campus. Need a place to meet with your group to study or work on a project? Our first and ground floors have comfortable group study areas where you can study together or create great group projects. Want something a little quieter so you can concentrate? There are quiet study areas on the second and third floors. Individual and group study rooms can also be found on the ground, second, and third floors. Need a group study room equipped with a computer for your group work? We can help with that as well. On the second floor there are two group study rooms equipped with computers and white boards. To get access to these rooms stop by the Media Equipment Desk to sign them out for a few hours. Your paper or project will be done in no time.

During the regular semester, the first floor of Stapleton Library is open between Sunday at 11:00 a.m. and Friday at 7:00 p.m. During the late night hours only the first floor is available for users and security guards are on hand to ensure safety of users. On Saturday, the library opens at 11:00 a.m. and closes at 7:00 p.m. Hours are listed on the bottom of the libraries home page and exceptions to regular hours can be found at http://www.iup.edu/WorkArea/linkit.aspx?LinkIdentifier=id&ItemID=174127&libID=174141. With extensive information resources, computers and technology equipment and assistance, long hours and great study spaces it is no wonder the main library had more than half a million visitors last year. You should visit soon.
LOOKING FOR THE LOCATION OF SOMETHING?

For digital maps of the library go to http://www.iup.edu/page.aspx?id=115566

CONTACT US

We want to know what you think. To send a comment or suggestion or to request that the library purchase material for our collection, use the Contact Us link on the library home page.