When searching in a library database, break up your topic into keywords: one- or two-word phrases that represent the most important concepts in your thesis or research question.

Research Tip #1

If your assignment requires you to find peer reviewed articles, look for an option in a database to limit your results to only those types of publications (also called scholarly, academic, or refereed) so that you won’t see articles from popular magazines or newspapers.

Research Tip #2

Start research on broad topics in books and encyclopedias, where you can find background information to help you better understand your topic. Find them online through I-Search!, available on the library’s home page.

The IUP Main Campus Library consists of two buildings back to back Stapleton/Stabley.

The music library facility is named in honor of Dr. Harold S. Orendorff, former chairperson of the Music Department and first dean of the College of Fine Arts at IUP.
The Special Collections & University Archives is located on the 3\textsuperscript{rd} floor of Stapleton holds 30,000 volumes, including first edition works by Geoffrey Chaucer, Charles Darwin, Charles Dickens, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Jules Verne, and H.G. Wells.

Studio 1b is located on the second floor of Stabley. The studio is equipped with a SMART board allowing for presentations with as-you-go annotations. This innovative facility is uniquely different in that the entire recording process is handled by one large button.
